

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has been extremely effective. It has improved my time at home by eliminating constant and repetitive phone calls trying to sell me phone service, credit cards, home improvements, just to name a few.

I used to receive 2-3 calls per evening, now I don't.

I have appreciated this new law more than any other that I can think of. It directly affected and improved my quality of life.
